PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

3300 Linda
Amarillo, Tx. 79109
806/352-7676

By this time your children or grandchildren are back in school and families are settling down. This would be a good time to visit your local coin dealer and start planning that Christmas gift for a loved one. With interest rates going lower, the prices of bullion items and collectibles should stabilize and some inch upwards.

Your president is very impressed with our coin club newsletters. Most are very informative, interesting and well written. Perhaps those clubs that do not send me a monthly copy would consider doing so. I would certainly appreciate all newsletters.

Remember to circle the dates of April 15-17, 1983 on your calendar for TNA's annual state convention in Corpus Christi. Billy Tate is the general chairman and John Face is bourse chairman. All dealers interested in a table should write John at Box 8593, Corpus Christi 78412. Better do that soon or you might be out of luck for a table. Our economy should be starting to hum again, so business should be brisk. Consider bringing your entire family and let them have a short vacation with you.

By the way, how long has it been since your club had a inter-club meeting? It's fun, interesting and we can all learn from each other. Consider this fall having a get-together with another club. Many lasting business and personal relationships have been developed this way

Have you as a member of TNA proposed a new member? Would you help build TNA by asking just one person - only one person - you will be surprised how many will accept the invitation. Thanks!

IDAHO MINES SILVER FOR NEW MEDALLIONS

Silver bearing rock is mined a mile under the surface of Idaho and converted into fine silver for thousands of products in industries and homes.

Helca Mining Company's Lucky Friday Mine produced silver for a limited number of one troy ounce 999+ fine silver proof medallions. The medallions are individually packed in clear plastic capsules and are available directly from Helca Mining Co., Wallace, Idaho 83873 for $14.00 (U.S.) each plus 50¢ for postage and handling.

One side of the medallion shows an outline of the state of Idaho.

THE RENAISSANCE REVISITED

Brent Brown & J P Jones
Waco, Tx

As the Texas summer gives way to the cooler weather of fall, many fairs, celebrations and festivals are held across the state. Most of these are of local interest but some, such as the Texas Renaissance Festival, draw crowds from across the state. The Festival is held six miles south of Plantersville (60 miles north of Houston on Hiway 1774) each weekend in October and the first weekend of November.

The Festival, the eighth annual, principles contained in Leonardo's sketches including the peg and case (pinion and lantern) gears, gear and pulley reduction, ratchets and releases and the drop hammer principle. Its dimensions are 20 feet high and 8 feet wide. The hammer weighs 145 pounds and drops a maximum of 16 feet with approximately 20 tons of striking force. A pewter planchet, 34mm in diameter, is encased in a metal collar and after being raised by a series of pulleys and ropes, not to mention

coin hammer made of wood offers a glimpse of life in Medieval Europe and a numismatic sideline is an operating coin hammer. The coin hammer, based on sketches by Leonardo da Vinci, is constructed entirely of wood, wooden pegs used instead of nails, and embodies a number of

"elbow grease," the hammer is released striking the medal on both sides simultaneously.

The coin hammer is operated by the Navasota Kiwanis Club, aided by members of the local Key Club. All proceeds are used for Kiwanis civic projects. These have included purchasing a hearing aid for a school girl.

Members of the local Kiwanis cast the pewter planchets and molded the dies which were engraved by Rudolph Tooling & Engraving of Spring, Tx. The medal, commemorating the 1980 Festival, was designed by Jerod Patout and Jay Riley of Navasota.

The obverse pictures a shield divided into three parts. In the first upper division is a fleur-de-lis symbolizing the coat of arms of Florence where Leonardo received his early training. In the second upper division, is a castle honoring the Festival king's sovereign house, and in the lower division, a horse commemorating the equestrian sports of the festival. The Kiwanis International logo appears in the field above the shield. A shield also appears on the reverse with a Jerusalem cross in the first quarter, a leopard in the second quarter, a mythical bird is depicted in the third, and two water bougets (vessels) in the fourth. All are typical of the devices used in medical heraldry.

Collector sets are available. In 1978 a total of 750 collector sets were struck in brass. In 1979 another 750 were struck in brass and 250 in copper. Approximately 500 specimens were struck in 1980. The collector medals are struck using the same idea but a modern press. They are struck with about 50 tons of force. In 1980 48 silver examples were minted and each year a Festival official has had a specimen struck in gold. Proof sets will be available in silver, copper and pewter.

Issue price for the pewter coins is $3.00, collector sets, $8.00, and in silver, $30.00. Some examples of past Festival medals are still available and interested collectors should contact the Navasota Kiwanis Club, Navasota, Tx. 77868.

For the imaginative traveler willing to get into the spirit of the event, the Texas Renaissance Festival produces a day of enjoyable pleasure. Much is done to provide an authentic atmosphere. Vendors, court officials and other participants dress in authentic attire and visitors to the realm also are encouraged to "dress up" for the occasion.

It is the atmosphere that makes the Festival enjoyable. At one time you might be watching some skilled jugglers. Then you may meet a fair damsel singing of her lost love or listen to the latest gossip with the fishwives. Don't be surprised if you are pushed aside by guards looking for a fugitive or if you find yourself bowing to the Festival king.

the finished product

There are horse races and demonstrations by the Royal Falconer. And of course challenges to your skills such as a game of skittles, climbing Jacob's ladder and fencing. The king's officers may show you their skill in archery or the executioner may display his skills.

New to the festivities this year is "Womba the Fool" who tells tales of history of the kings and queens of Old England in poetry and audience participation.

And don't forget the food. There will be turkey legs, stuffed spuds, apple dumplings, Scotch eggs and other treats brought in from all parts of the realm. Artists bring their wares to display for the pleasure of lord and commoner. Everything from leatherwork, pottery, woodcraft and metalcraft will be available.

Also there will be demonstrations of various skills such as glassblowing and blacksmithing. There will be Morality plays, puppet shows, singers, Shakespearean actors and belly dancers.

The location of the Festival also adds to the atmosphere. It is located in the green pine forests which hide this realm from the rest of the world. The buildings are constructed in medieval style. Once one departs from the shade of the buildings and passes out of the shelter of the pine trees, he leaves a merry place to wait for the time when the Texas Renaissance Festival will again call him to "lift up your cares" and join the merriment.

(The interesting historical background of the short-lived Iturbide Empire of Mexico is continued from last month - Editor.)

THE MEXICAN EMPIRE OF DON AGUSTIN DE ITURBIDE - 1822-1823

By Miguel L. Munoz, NLG
Mexico City, Mexico

CONCLUSION

On the evening of May 18, 1822 a Catalan sargeant, Pio Marcha, started a public manifestation, that soon grew bigger and noisier, proclaiming Iturbide as emperor. The populace ran to his palace under the deafening sound of church bells, guns, firecrackers and yelling. "Viva Agustin Primero." Iturbide addressed the crowd from his balcony and declined this spontaneous nomination. Next day, however, Congress voted him emperor: 67 in favor and 15 against. Some people complained that Congress had voted under pressure from the mob. A new vote was taken two days later behind closed doors.

The votes this second time were: 106 in favor. Iturbide, therefore, was declared EMPERADOR CONSTITUCIONAL as AGUSTIN I. Everybody seemed happy. The date for the coronation and that of his wife Ana Maria was set for July 21, 1822. His father was declared Principe de la Union and his eldest son, of course, Imperil a Crown Prince. The coronation ceremony at the Cathedral was carried out in accordance with the Roman Ritual, therefore, Emperor Augustin I was presented, at a certain moment of the ceremony, with 13 gold medals. Thirteen identical medals, but in silver, were presented to both Empress Ana Maria and Crown Prince Agustin.

Medals, proclamas - celebratory pieces - Juras - oaths of allegiance - began to be struck by towns, villages and institutions, civil and ecclesiastic. They all wanted to express or show their allegiance to their new emperor. Approximately 20 different pieces are known in gold, silver and copper.

Iturbide's coinage has many varieties and deserves a more exhaustive study. The Decree of June 11, 1822 ordered the coinage of gold, silver and copper coins, however, no copper coins were ever struck.

Gold was struck only in two denominations, 8 and 4 scudos. In 1822 only 8 scudos were minted, but with two different dies. In 1823, 8 and 4 scudos were struck. There is a very important variety. The 8 scudos dated 1822 may read, AUGUSTINUS OR AUGSTINUS (?). Four gold coins form the complete gold series.

Silver coinage, on the other hand, registers many varieties even though it was struck only two years (1822-1823) and in four denominations only: 8, 2, 1 and $1\frac{1}{2}$ reales. No four reales were ever minted. In the silver coins there are varieties in the busts, necks, eagles, cactus plants, water lines, legends, placings, etc. which, as we said before, deserve a more conscientious study.

The financial situation got worse and the Empire had to recur to paper money. It was the first time that Mexico issued paper money. The Decree of Dec. 20, 1822 authorized a paper money issue of four million pesos as follows.

$2,000,000 in one peso notes

$1,000,000 in two peso notes

$1,000,000 in 10 peso notes

All these bills are rather primitive. They are approximately 15x10 cms (6" x 4") in size; cut by hand and most of them come with a diagonal cut with scissors to make them void.

Paper money was loathed as a disgrace for the country that had produced and still produces most silver in the world. Naturally, many people resented this. Iturbide's enemies had another opportunity to attack him. There was even a project from a man called Jose Guerrero to issue "moneda provisional" made from shoe leather; but this only remained a project.

The political situation of the empire was deteriorating rapidly. People were not prepared to enjoy Independence and Liberty. The opinions were divided. The monarchial split into "borbonists" and "imperilists;" the republicans into "federalistas" and "centralistas," there were always clericals and anti-clericals (also known as liberals). New groups began to spring up. Among these the masons became very active and came to be an important faction.

When Viceroy Revillagigedo came to Mexico late in the 18th century, several of the army officers who came with him were masons of the Scottish rite. They were established at Mexico City and spread out quickly in the other cities. By that time there was already in Mexico a small group of free masons, but they had not been very active. Early in the 1820's a U.S. observer and later first American ambassador to Mexico, Joel Roberts Poinsett, came to Mexico after having been expelled from Chile where he had interfered with national politics. Poinsett was a mason of the York rite. He and Lorenzo Zavala and other followers among the liberals founded a lodge. Soon the masons were fighting for supremacy and their meetings became real political rallies. At the end the "escoceses" (Scotch rite) bowed to the "Yorkinos" (York rite). All masons were republicans and openly against the empire.

With so many political parties, with so many opinions, with intrigues and no cooperation, with disloyalty and no one to trust, the situation became chaotic and Emperor Iturbide abdicated at Tacubaya Mar. 19, 1823. He was escorted to Veracruz and sailed on the English frigate "Rawlings" for Italy. After a short time there he moved to England where he received insistant calls from his partisans and also rumors of an invasion of Mexico by the Santa Alianza Europea (European Holy Alliance). So, he wrote to Congress that he was willing to return to fight for his country.

His enemies were afraid of his coming back and pressed Congress to declare him a traitor and outlawed him. Unfortunately, this news never reached him as he had already sailed for Mexico.

He landed in Soto la Marina July 14 and when he got on a horse in front of a group of soldiers, a corporal who

As part of its 400th birthday celebration, El Paso buried a time capsule in downtown San Jacinto Plaza on New Year's Eve, 1981. The capsule contains 45 items, including an 1881 silver dollar, Indian pottery made by the Tigua tribes, a local history by Dr. W. H. Timmons, and the membership roster of the El Paso Chamber of Commerce. The city plans to unearth the capsule in 2081 — and in San Antonio, O. P. Schnabel, wellknown civic leader, planted a capsule for his 20-month-old great-grandson, Kyle Lee Pennekamp. When Kyle is 26 in the year 2006, he'll get to dig up the red, white and blue time capsule buried in a brick under the American flag, Patio of States in front of the Henry B. Gonzalez Convention Center. The capsule contains a 1906 Good Luck Penny Card, a $2 bill signed by San Antonio Mayor Henry Cisneros and letters from wellknowns predicting what the city will be like in 2006.

Thieves dived the 4-foot deep ancient Roman "wishing pool" at the historic Pump Room outside Bath Abbey, Bath, England and scooped up coins worth an estimated $500. Intruders threw ropes over a 20-foot

Did you know that the gold strike of 1864 created a heck-raising boom town called Last Chance Gulch in Montana? It became the territorial capital in 1882, and the name was changed to Helena as a more sedate element colonized the town. — and did you read about the famous man with the gold nose? Tycho Brahe, the Swedish astronomer, lost his nose in a duel with a Dane in 1556 and replaced it with a nose of solid gold.

Most Texas treasure was buried not on the lone prairie but in caves, rivers or mountains, to give its owners a landmark to look for when they returned. None of them, of course, ever returned. The 91st convention of ANA held in Boston is now duly recorded but I'm not sure of all the facts. Those of us who managed to attend were of mixed emotions upon leaving.

Texas was well represented by those whom I saw and of others whom I heard were there. Of the officials of TNA, I saw our first VP, Lyman Barteo and Dr. Robert Greenwood. If there were others, I did not see them.

The attendance was not the door-busting howling mob which marked the opening at Houston. However, it seemed to be rather lightly attended. I know some dealers did as usual but I did not have time to talk to many of them as I was tied up with judging the exhibits. This year I was a judge in two fields, pre- and post-1500 AD.

The exhibits were much better than in some of the previous years, especially in the quantity and some in quality. We had eight exhibits in Category 7, pre-1500, made up of six adults and two juniors. We had eight exhibits in Category 8, post-1500, made up of seven adults and one junior. Out of the more than 40,000 members of ANA we had only about 60 judges to cover 22 categories. This meant that some of us must do a double duty.

DO Joplin sent me a letter just before I left for Boston in which he gave me the names of two qualified men who MAY can be convinced to be judges for TNA. So far this is the only letter I have received with a name. I will need about 20 names to get this program off the ground. I have an idea for killing two birds with a single stone but I will have to discuss it with both TNA and GHCC before I can put it into operation.

All of you TNA members out there who are proud of TNA, DO NOT forget to write the medals man, Howard Luke, and buy your lapel pin which means that TNA will get a percentage of each sale. I purchased mine last May in Ft. Worth but since the program needs a certain number before the striking starts, it has not yet become a reality. The pin can be bought in sterling silver for less than $10 while the Life Member in 10K gold will cost $69. So, let's go for TNA.

SILVER FOR BEAUTY & SECURITY

Many of the 340 million daughters of India wear abundant sparkling silver jewelry, not only enhancing their beauty, but providing them with financial security.

In the Hindu tradition it is what a woman can wear that is recognized as her own property under her own control. So myriads of silver bracelets, necklaces, earrings, confection decorations and other valuable silver ornaments, are sought after, given and cherished by the little girls, the brides and the matrons of India

The wedding of Prince Charles and Lady Diana was honored on 12 gold coinages during 1981 in a variety of designs, including that of the conjoined Armorial Shields of the Royal Couple adorning a coin issued by the Isle of Man.

Barney Welch discussed a factual case concerning what happened to one person's coin collection which was stored in a bank safety deposit box at the August meeting of Garland Coin Club. He noted that the mix-up occurred when the bank was moving safety deposit boxes from one location to another. He said the case illustrates the necessity of keeping close tabs on valuables stored in safety deposit boxes.

At its July meeting, general plans presented by chairman Charles Wingo for the Texomaland Coin & Stamp Club's 10th annual coin show, were approved. District 5 governor Barney Welch then reviewed the Dealers Gray Sheet and described how it influenced the coin market.

In August, final plans were completed for the coin show. It will be held in the ballroom of Hotel Denison on Oct. 23-24. H. C. Overt was appointed bourse chairman.

Col. Wingo presented a program about the first ten towns in Texas to issue National Bank Notes, and displayed an example from each town. He also explained why several of today's smaller towns were included in the first ten.

It has been our purpose not to discuss politics. We have limited ourselves to historical facts. Unfortunately, information in many instances is scarce, incomplete or non-existent. Iturbide gave Mexico peace, a name and flag that we still use and are proud of. We cannot praise Liberty and curse our Liberator.

At the San Felipe de Jesus chapel - on the left aisle of the Cathedral in Mexico City - we can see an urn under a Mexican flag with Iturbide's remains. It is just a few steps from the altar where Iturbide was crowned Emperor of Mexico.

knew him well, saw a man riding his horse with such skill that he yelled "It's Iturbide! Only Iturbide can ride a horse like that." That did it! He was taken prisoner and after a most irregular trial by the local Tamaulipas State Congress - a legislative body, not a court - he was condemned to be executed three hours later. He requested postponement for the next day so he could receive Holy Communion, but it was denied. Just before the execution he handed over to a priest a rosary and his watch for his son and a letter to his wife Ana Maria. After that he distributed some gold coins to the firing squad soldiers. He was shot at Padilla, Tamaulipas, the afternoon of July 19, 1824.

LOST SILVER

Much of the silver mined down through the ages has been lost. In the first half of this century, people lost an estimated 100,000 tons of silver coins. Another 3,000 tons are estimated to be in X-ray films filed for years in hospitals and doctor's offices.

Ft. Worth's Kimbell Museum
To Exhibit Hunt Collection

Select examples of ancient and silver coins, bronze statuary and painted clay vases - part of a fortune in classical antiquities collected by oilmen Nelson Bunker Hunt and William Herbert Hunt - will be exhibited for the first time at the Kimbell Art Museum starting Mar. 5, 1983.

Kimbell director Edmund P. Pillsbury described the collection of 122 coins as "extremely precious and rare - probably the finest private collection of antique Greek and Roman coins in the world." The estimated value of the coins is $20 million.

Thirty-two bronzes owned by William Herbert Hunt also will be on display. They range from lifesize portrait heads to figurines of only a few inches. Among the most spectacular bronzes is a lifesize 2nd to 1st century B.C. Greek head of Zeus and a slightly smaller Roman Head of a Man, circa 250 A.D.

One important red-figure "calyx crater" dated about 520-505 B.C. is by Euphronios, the Greek artist who made a famous vase for which the Metropolitan Museum paid $1.3 million in 1972.

Plans call for the exhibit to be placed at major East Coast and Mid-west museums, return to Texas for exhibition at the new Dallas Museum of Fine Arts in March 1984, then finish at the J. Paul Getty Museum in Malibu, Calif. the following summer.

COLLECTIONS WANTED

We are actively seeking collections—USA, Mexico and Latin American. Any size. If you are seriously thinking of selling your collection, we will either buy outright, trade for bullion coins, or handle thru one of our auctions—whichever will bring you the best price for your collection. We will also consider individual rarities, especially in gold or silver.

If interested, please contact Dr. George Vogt. We are also interested in servicing your want list.
